NOVEMBER BULLETIN

Holiday Party

November 18, 2023

The Finish Line - Los Alamitos Race Track

Let's Start From Scratch - "starting from scratch", meaning to do something from the very beginning, comes from the way horse races were started before the introduction of stalls or flip starts. The horses' had to line up behind a line that had been scratched in the turf and Hands Down - when someone wins an event "hands down" it means an easy victory, often by a landslide margin. The saying comes from the way jockeys drop their hands to slacken the reins in order to ease up their mounts in the closing stages of comfortable victories.

Across The Board - this term describes something as all-encompassing, originated from betting on horseracing. In the early 1900s, someone placing a bet "across the board" would collect if the horse finished first, second or third - much the same as each-way betting as we know it today.

Have A Run For Your Money - this saying now means to get value for something you've paid for. It comes from racing where if a horse you've backed performs with credit you have at least got "a run for your money".
